

"Excellence is not measured by how we perceive ourselves - it is measured by how we are perceived by others"

Nuera came to be not by Design, but by Evolution. Our culture, thought process and goals grew to be defined by what the development and construction industry needs to be successful in today's world. Nuera was created by a natural alignment with the people who make up our company. People who care, who have spent much of their careers within the industry and who have distinguished themselves with involvement at various levels of development construction across North America.

Through the application of practical experience and common sense, we offer our Clients and Consultants the opportunity to partner with our Team, and manage the process with the perspective of the Owner with a stake in the project.

Our Boutique Design Build process offers integrated project design and delivery methods, providing our clients with the benefits of a single source "one-stop-shop" method of delivery. We bring together a collaborative team of design and construction professionals bringing unique value to projects, from inception through construction and beyond completed operation.

Our team has the ability to successfully execute the management and construction of Residential, Commercial, Senior and Health Care Projects while taking into account the genuine needs of the Client, market, design, construction and the cost from engagement.
